Open Position
Native American Languages Collection

More than 160 languages are represented in the Native American languages collection. The collection is a resource center for researchers, educators and language advocates. Volunteers work to digitize print and audio materials and inventory projects. Volunteers will be creating descriptions to serve as primary statements seen by researchers and all users of the NAL collection’s online database. Training will be provided, and volunteers will have first-hand experience working with language archive materials in a variety of print, audio, and video formats.
